Chapter 1: LEAP English Language Arts, Grade 4

This section describes the overall design of the LEAP English Language Arts (ELA) test to be administered to students in grade 4. Test specifications, scoring rubrics, and sample test questions are provided to explain how the standards and benchmarks for English language arts are assessed.

Test Structure and Item Types

The ELA test consists of four sessions, which are administered in two phases, each phase in a single day:

Phase 1:
- Writing

Phase 2:
- Reading and Responding
- Using Information Resources
- Proofreading

Students are allowed as much time as they need to complete each session, but suggested times are provided in the Test Administration Manual, which explains the procedures for allowing students additional time to complete a session of the test.

Writing

To better prepare our students for the Common Core State Standards, the writing prompts on the transitional assessments will focus on a key instructional shift—writing grounded in textual evidence. Instead of responding to a "stand alone" writing prompt, students will be expected to read one or two passages and then write a composition that includes evidence from the text(s) in the response. This session of the test measures the content of Standards 2 and 3.

The Writing test is untimed, but students should be given a minimum of 75 minutes to read the passage(s), plan and write their composition, and check their work. Students are given a Writer’s Checklist and are provided with dictionaries and thesauruses. A copy of the Writer’s Checklist is located in Appendix D.

Reading and Responding

This session consists of four reading passages (including at least one fiction, one nonfiction, and one poem). It includes a variety of multiple-choice and short-answer questions that measure the content of standards 1, 6, and 7. All reading passages are complete and authentic, either previously published work, fully developed excerpts from longer published works, or well-developed text written for the test. Excerpts from longer works may be used if they are self-contained.
Fiction passages (approximately 450–1,000 words) may include short stories, folktales, legends, or myths. In grade 4, passages may include illustrations.

Nonfiction passages (approximately 450–850 words) may include newspaper and magazine articles, autobiographies, biographies, editorials, encyclopedia articles, letters to the editor, and speeches. If appropriate, the nonfiction passage may include a visual (for example, pictures, graphs, tables, flow charts).

The lengths of two passages (one fiction and one nonfiction) fall within the respective ranges noted above. The poem and the fourth passage may be shorter than 450 words.

The reading level of each piece is grade-appropriate. Long passages are measured with 6 multiple-choice and 2 short-answer questions; short passages are measured with 4 multiple-choice and 2 short-answer questions.

The Reading and Responding session consists of 20 multiple-choice and 8 short-answer questions that are distributed across Standards 1, 6, and 7.

Using Information Resources

This session assesses Standard 5. Students are provided four to six reference sources to use to answer 5 multiple-choice and 2 short-answer questions. These reference sources may include sources such as:

- articles (from encyclopedias, magazines, newspapers, textbooks)
- parts of books (tables of contents, indexes, glossaries)
- visual aids (maps, graphs, tables, charts, illustrations, schedules, diagrams)
- computer information (such as a picture of a page from a Web site)

All of the information resources are realistic, grade-appropriate materials that a fourth grader might find in a library and use in preparing a project or report. All materials are related to a specific topic. With the reference materials, students receive a written description of a task, such as gathering information and planning to write a report. Students are directed to skim through the resources to locate and select information.

Proofreading

This session assesses standard 3. Students read a text of about 100–150 words that includes mistakes in sentence formation, usage, mechanics, and spelling. The text may be a letter, a narrative, an editorial, or an expository piece. It will include eight numbered, underlined parts. Students answer multiple-choice questions that require choosing the best way to write each underlined part (either by correcting the mistake or by indicating that the underlined part is written correctly as is).

Proofreading consists of 8 multiple-choice questions.

Scoring the English Language Arts Sessions

Multiple-Choice Items

Each multiple-choice question has four response options (A, B, C, and D) and is worth one point each. Correct answers receive a score of 1; incorrect answers receive a score of 0.

Written Composition

In the Writing section of the assessment, there is a writing prompt that requires a student to read one or two passages and then write a composition that includes evidence from the text in the response. Student compositions are scored using two rubrics: one for Content and one for Style. There are two Content rubrics; one is used to score student compositions that respond to prompts with one passage; the other is for prompts with two passages. The Content and Style Rubrics can be found on pages 5 through 7.
The Content Rubric considers how well students present their central idea; the development of that idea, including the appropriate and accurate use of evidence from the passage(s); and the organization of their ideas. The Style Rubric considers word choice; sentence fluency, which includes sentence structure and sentence variety; and voice, the individual personality of the writing.

The written response to the writing prompt is also scored for the conventions of writing (Sentence Formation, Usage, Mechanics, and Spelling). All other written responses (short-answer items) for the ELA, Mathematics, Science, and Social Studies assessments are scored for content only.

A 12-point rubric is used to score writing. The dimensions and point values of the writing rubric are:

<thead>
<tr>

</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>

</tr>
<tr>

</tr>
<tr>

</tbody>
</table>

Legibility contributes to the scorers’ ease of understanding what the student has written. Any legible composition will be scored, regardless of penmanship. Students may write in print or cursive. Compositions will be considered on topic if the scorer can determine that the student attempted to respond to the prompt.
CONTENT (One Passage): Central Idea, Development, and Organization

Key Questions: Does the writer stay focused and respond to all parts of the task? Does the writer’s use of the text show an understanding of the passage and the writing task? Does the organizational structure strengthen the writer’s ideas and make the composition easier to understand?

</tbody>
</table>
The dimensions of Sentence Formation, Usage, Mechanics, and Spelling are scored with either a + (acceptable), which receives 1 point, or – (unacceptable), which receives 0 points.

Sentence Formation: Desirable features are completeness and construction of a variety of patterns.

+ The response exhibits acceptable control of sentence formation. Most sentences are correct; there are few, if any, run-on sentences or fragments. Additionally, there is a variety of sentence patterns, indicating that the writer can construct more than one type of sentence competently.

– The response exhibits unacceptable control of sentence formation. There are run-on sentences, fragments, and/or poorly constructed sentences that indicate that the writer does not have adequate skill in sentence formation. There may be evidence of control of only one type of sentence pattern (usually simple).

Usage: Features are agreement, standard inflections, and word meaning.

+ The response exhibits acceptable control of usage. Subject-verb agreement, verb tenses, forms of adjectives and adverbs, and word meaning are generally correct. If errors are present, they do not appear to be part of a pattern of usage errors.

– The response exhibits unacceptable control of usage. There are errors in subject-verb agreement, verb tenses, forms of adjectives and adverbs, and/or word meaning. The pattern of errors is evidence of a lack of control of the features of usage.

Mechanics: Features are punctuation and capitalization.

+ The response exhibits acceptable control of mechanics. Punctuation and capitalization are generally correct. If errors are present, they do not appear to be part of a pattern of mechanics errors.

– The response exhibits unacceptable control of mechanics. There are errors in punctuation and capitalization. The pattern of errors is evidence of a lack of control of the features of mechanics.

Spelling:

+ The response exhibits acceptable control of spelling. The majority of grade-appropriate words are spelled correctly. There is no pattern of spelling errors.

– The response exhibits unacceptable control of spelling. There are errors in spelling grade-appropriate words. There is a pattern of spelling errors.

In some cases, a composition may not be scorable. For example, if it is illegible or if it includes only copied text from the given passage(s), it will not be scored in any dimension and will receive a score of zero. A paper may be off-topic and cannot be scored for Content or Style, but it may be scored for Sentence Formation, Usage, Mechanics, and Spelling. Such a paper could receive a maximum of 4 of 12 points.
Additional Scoring Criteria for Writing

To avoid double jeopardy during scoring, one word will constitute only one error. In situations in which it is difficult to determine to which dimension the error should be assigned, the scorer will take into account priority, context clues, and error patterns that are evident in the paper.

- Priority is given to the more serious grammatical errors.
- Context clues may indicate the writer’s intention.
- Error patterns already evident in the paper indicate a skill weakness in that dimension.

Sentence Formation:

- If a sentence with omissions, extra words, or wrong words can be corrected by changing one word, the error should count as a usage error.
  Example: When it’s no school, I play all day.

- If a sentence requires the rearrangement, omission, or addition of more than one word, the error should count as a sentence formation error.
  Example: I saw those boys fighting while driving my car.

- Nonparallel structure, often in a series, is a sentence formation error.
  Example: We will live better lives, coping with our sorrows, and how to be joyful of our happiness.

- In grades that are not responsible for mastery of colons, a sentence that contains a series that should have been preceded by a colon would count as a sentence formation error. The alternate correct construction would be another sentence.
  Example: Janet is a good librarian because of all three of these reasons she is helpful, she is smart and she is courteous.

- If a sentence fragment is deliberately presented for effect, the error is not counted as an error.

- A pattern of awkward syntax (word order) should be considered a sentence formation error.

Quotations:

- All spelling and grammar errors that appear in a direct quotation are assumed to be the errors of the speaker, not the writer. They are not counted in any dimension. Errors in mechanics that appear in a direct quotation do count.
  Example: “You aint got no reason ta be here Manny!” shouted the foreman.

- Direct quotations should not be preceded by that. Indirect quotations should be preceded by that. These count as errors in mechanics.
  Example: Then Mom said that, “We cannot go along.” After we returned, she said we are in trouble.

Mechanics, Usage, and Spelling:

Usage and mechanics errors count each time they occur in a composition. However, spelling errors count only once, even if a word is misspelled in more than one way.
• If a sentence begins with a capital letter but is not preceded by a period, the error counts as a mechanics error.

  Example: Martha went to the well and looked inside far below, something was sparkling in the water.

• If a sentence begins with a lowercase letter but is preceded by a period, the error counts as a mechanics error.

  Example: Teddy is the youngest in the family, he is my only nephew.

• Use of double comparatives or double negatives is a common usage error.

  Example: I’m even more better at soccer than at football. None of them are not my friend.

• Use of the wrong preposition is a common usage error.

  Example: He went for the house.

• In addition to TV, both T.V. and tv are acceptable and not mechanics errors. Interchanging will with would and can with could is acceptable and not a usage error. Use of so they instead of so that they is acceptable and not a usage error.

• Agreement errors of compound pronouns or collective nouns with possessives are usage errors.

  Examples: Correct: people’s lives, everyone’s hope, everybody’s house, their lives

  Example: Incorrect: None of the teachers are good role models or a hero.

• Agreement errors with collectives, phrases, and conjunctions are usage errors.

  Example: Incorrect: None of the teachers are good role models or a hero.

• A word may be both a usage and a spelling error; it may not be possible from context clues to determine whether the error is in spelling or in usage. In such instances, the error should be counted in usage only.

  Example: She allway comes to work on time.

• If a misused word in a sentence is a real word, it is a usage error. If it is not a real word, it is a spelling error.

  Example: We all went to the skating ring. (usage) We joined my paddens and were reddy to leave. (spelling)

• An error in which a homonym takes the place of the correct word is counted as a spelling error.

  Example: Martin gave him a peace of his chocolate bar.

• Some words, although they are not real homonyms, are so phonetically similar that they are frequently misspelled. Context clues should indicate whether the skill weakness is spelling or usage (wrong word).

  Example: I would rather have a vacation then a raise! (spelling) She was late for her piano listens. (usage)

• A word may be either a spelling or a mechanics error. Use either context clues or error patterns to determine which dimension would be most appropriate.

  Example: All the hero’s aren’t in the movies. (spelling)

• A word may be either a usage or a mechanics error. Use either context clues or error patterns to determine which dimension would be most appropriate.
Example: Were going to Disneyland on our vacation. (mechanics)

- In a series, a comma before and is optional; both ways are considered correct.
  Example: The birds, cats and dogs . . . The birds, cats, and dogs . . .

- In some series, the placement of the comma is not optional because it affects the sense of the sentence.
  Example: The pet shop was filled with birds, cats and dogs (kenneled), and fish of every color, shape and size.

- A word at the end of a line that is not broken at the end of a syllable or is broken and has only one syllable is a mechanics error.
  Example: I worked at the National Found- nation for the Blind.

Other Issues:

- Jargon that is in common use in contemporary speech is permitted in on-demand compositions.
  Example: After he cut the lights, we locked the door and left the house.

- Dialect is counted as a usage error unless it is in a direct quotation.
  Example: I’m very happy y’all are reading my test and I hope y’all pass me.

Students must produce a composition that addresses the writing prompt to fulfill the requirements of the writing session. Plays, poems, lyrics, and drawings are not acceptable.

Because the purpose of writing assessments is to determine how well students can demonstrate and maintain writing skills in an original on-demand composition, the rules of standard written English apply and override foreign language, regional, ethnic, and colloquial speech patterns.

For each administration of LEAP, a student’s writing response is scored by at least two readers, whose scores are averaged for each dimension.

STANDARDS AND BENCHMARKS ASSESSED

This section explains which benchmarks are assessed and how they will be assessed. The information is organized by test sessions and, when appropriate, includes the following for each session: standards assessed; benchmarks assessed, or the text of all benchmarks eligible for LEAP; and any assessment limits, which include benchmarks that are excluded from LEAP and any special restrictions on test content.

Explanation of Codes

Standards 1, 6, and 7 relate to reading comprehension skills.

Standards 2 and 3 relate to writing processes and conventions of language.

Standard 4 relates to speaking and listening skills, which are not assessed on LEAP.

Standard 5 relates to research skills.

English language arts codes are arranged by content area, standard number, grade cluster (E, M, H), and benchmark number. The first part of the code is always English language arts. The second part indicates the standard number. The third part indicates the grade cluster and benchmark number.

</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Compositions are scored for the conventions of standard English. The content parameters for conventions grade 4 students are expected to know are specified on the following page.
Content Parameters

Punctuation
- use of end punctuation (with sentences and with abbreviated titles, such as Mr.)
- use of commas in a series of terms, in dates, between city and state, after the salutation, and after the closing of a friendly letter
- use of apostrophes with contractions and possessives

Capitalization
- capitalization of the first word of a sentence, the pronoun I, days, months, and holidays, names of people, titles of respect, and titles of books, movies, songs, etc.

Sentence Structure
- use of complete sentences (avoiding fragments and run-on sentences)

Usage
- subject-verb agreement
- use of verb tenses
- comparative and superlative adjectives and adverbs
- use of pronoun case
- usage of nouns, verbs, pronouns, adjectives, and adverbs

Spelling
- grade-appropriate words
- high-frequency words
- color words
- days of the week
- common abbreviations
- grade-appropriate spelling patterns
Reading and Responding

The Reading and Responding session assesses reading comprehension skills specified in standards 1, 6, and 7 with four reading passages.

Standard 1: Students read, comprehend, and respond to a range of materials, using a variety of strategies for different purposes.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Benchmarks Assessed</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>ELA-1-E1 gaining meaning from print and building vocabulary using a full range of strategies (for example, self-monitoring and correcting, searching, cross-checking), evidenced by reading behaviors using phonemic awareness, phonics, sentence structure, and meaning</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>ELA-1-E4 recognizing story elements (for example, setting, plot, character, theme) and literary devices (for example, dialogue, simile, personification) within a selection</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>ELA-1-E5 reading, comprehending, and responding to written, spoken, and visual texts in extended passages (for example, range for fiction passages—450–1,000 words; range for nonfiction—450–850 words)</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Questions measuring benchmark ELA-1-E1 assess gaining meaning from word clues or context clues but not building vocabulary. Items assess understanding the meaning of a word from context. Clues to proper meaning are found in the sentence itself or in surrounding sentences.

Questions measuring ELA-1-E4 assess story elements but not literary devices. Story elements include plot, setting, main characters, theme, and problem resolution.

ELA-1-E5 may be measured with questions that involve an illustration or picture.

These benchmarks may be assessed with multiple-choice and short-answer questions related to the reading passages.

Standard 6: Students read, analyze, and respond to literature as a record of life experiences.

To allow for assessment of these benchmarks, the four reading passages represent a variety of literary genres. At least one represents American literature, reflecting the experiences and traditions of ethnic group(s) within the United States. Questions that measure ELA-6-E3 may require students to identify characteristics of the passages as well as the genre of a passage. All three benchmarks may be measured by multiple-choice or short-answer questions related to the passages.

Standard 7: Students apply reasoning and problem-solving skills to their reading, writing, speaking, listening, viewing, and visually representing.

Benchmarks Assessed

- ELA-7-E1 using comprehension strategies (for example, sequencing, predicting, drawing conclusions, comparing and contrasting, making inferences, determining main ideas) to interpret oral, written, and visual texts
- ELA-7-E3 recognizing an author’s purpose (reason for writing) and viewpoint (perspective)
- ELA-7-E4 using basic reasoning skills to distinguish fact from opinion, skim and scan for facts, determine cause and effect, generate inquiry, and make connections with real-life situations

Questions that measure standard 7 focus primarily on assessment of reading comprehension and higher-order thinking skills. All three benchmarks may be measured by multiple-choice or short-answer questions related to the passages.
Using Information Resources

The Using Information Resources session measures standard 5, research skills, by using a set of reference sources.

ELA-5-E1 is measured with questions that assess the ability to use organizational features to locate information in a variety of sources. Questions measuring ELA-5-E2 assess the ability to determine the best source of information. Items that measure ELA-5-E3 focus on the skills of outlining and filling in parts of a graphic organizer. ELA-5-E5 is assessed with questions that involve identifying parts of a bibliographic entry. Items that measure ELA-5-E6 involve locating information in graphic organizers.

These benchmarks may be assessed with multiple-choice and short-answer questions.
Proofreading

All questions in the Proofreading session measure the use of the conventions of standard English. ELA-3-E5 is assessed with questions that require students to recognize the correct spelling of grade-appropriate words. Students may not use dictionaries for this test session. The content parameters for fourth grade are shown on page 1-15.

These benchmarks are measured with 8 multiple-choice questions.
Sample Test Items: Grade 4 English Language Arts

Writing

Below is a sample passage-based writing prompt like those used in a grade 4 LEAP Transitional English Language Arts test.

Read the passage about Moroccan markets. As you read the passage, imagine an adventure someone could have finding an unusual treasure in a Moroccan market. Then use the passage to help you to write a well-organized story of at least three paragraphs.

Moroccan Market

Morocco is a country in northern Africa bordered by the Atlantic Ocean and the Mediterranean Sea. One of the most interesting things about this country is its markets. What makes these markets so special? Let’s find out!

The markets can be any size, but most are very large, open-air markets. That means they are not in a mall or shopping center. They are outdoors where shoppers can feel the wind blowing and the sun shining. Sometimes birds fly into the market or animals walk in and “shop” among the people. Some big markets are made up of so many narrow streets that it feels like walking through a maze.

A Moroccan market has many surprises for shoppers. It is filled with interesting and unusual sights and sounds. Storytellers wander through the market entertaining people with delightful tales. Musicians play drums and sing African music. Acrobats delight the crowds with their tumbling and extraordinary balancing acts. Snake charmers play flutes to make their snakes dance, and trained monkeys perform for the shoppers!

There are many treasures to be found in a Moroccan market. Some people shop for old, mysterious lamps, beautiful locked boxes, or statues made of metal. Others look for unusual rugs, jewelry, or clothes. Some buy food and spices that can only be found in Morocco.

At a Moroccan market there are no price tags. Shoppers choose how much they want to pay for something through a process called bartering. If both the shop owner and shopper agree on a price, they will make the trade. This way both the shop owner and shopper are happy.

A Moroccan market is truly a special place. Shoppers never know what to expect at each turn in the maze of a Moroccan market. One thing is certain: shoppers cannot help but have an adventure they will remember.
Writing Topic

Think about an adventure someone could have in a Moroccan market. Think about what he or she might see and do.

Write a story for your teacher about an adventure someone has in a Moroccan market. Use details from the passage to help you tell your story.

As you write, follow the suggestions below.

- Your story should have at least three paragraphs.
- Be sure your story has a beginning, a middle, and an ending.
- Use details from the passage and include enough information so your teacher will understand what happened in your story.
- Be sure to write clearly.
- Check your writing for correct spelling, punctuation, and grammar.

Short Passage

Read this story about Milton Hershey and how he succeeded in his life, and then answer the questions that follow.

When I Was a Kid

by Lynda DeWitt

As a boy Milton Hershey went to work as a candymaker. The rest is sweet history.

The summer of 1863 was a frightening time for the Hershey family and others in southern Pennsylvania where they lived. The Civil War was raging; for three long days soldiers fought a fierce battle near the town of Gettysburg. Milton Hershey was only 5 years old at the time. He, his younger sister, Sarena, and their parents could hear cannons booming nearby. People were terrified that the fighting would come even closer, so many buried their valuables in their yards. Milton did too. He’d earned pennies for doing errands. Like most children, he loved candy, and he’d been saving his coins to buy some.

After the deadly battle finally ended and the Confederate Army had retreated, Milton went to dig up his coins. But he couldn’t remember where he’d hidden them. He dug up half the garden before finding his own buried treasure.

Milton was born on September 13, 1857, in Hockersville, Pennsylvania. His parents were poor, and they moved frequently. During his childhood Milton attended seven different schools. Some were cold and badly equipped. He was a poor student and left school after receiving a fourth-grade education.

Tragedy struck the family when Milton was 9 years old. Sarena died of scarlet fever, a serious disease that was common among children at that time. The loss was sad for Milton, and it devastated his parents. After Sarena died, Milton’s father moved away from home. He remained involved in Milton’s life, though.

WHEN MILTON GREW UP . . .

He started the Hershey Chocolate Company in 1894. In 1900 the company began selling milk chocolate candy bars, a new kind of candy in the United States.

With profits from his business he opened a school for orphaned boys. Now the school provides a home and an education for boys and girls. He and his wife, Catherine, also established the town of Hershey, Pennsylvania.

Young chimpanzees need their mothers during the first few years of life. Read about how chimpanzee mothers care for their babies, then answer questions that follow.

Chimpanzee Childhood

by Richard Wrangham

Mother is far and away the most important figure in the life of a young chimpanzee. Brothers and sisters can be good playmates, but since babies normally are born six years apart, by the time the new baby is three, the older offspring often is on its own.

The baby is born in a tree, on a bed of twigs and leaves where Mother has been resting for a day. No one else knows about the arrival, not even the older sister or brother. The baby is very weak at first, barely able to hold on. Mother has to climb slowly, cradling it awkwardly. First-time mothers do not always know how to make a baby comfortable, and sometimes they hurt the baby by squeezing too hard when they are only trying to help.

A few hours after leaving the birth nest, the baby starts meeting other chimpanzees. Everyone is interested in the new arrival, but the mother is very cautious about letting anyone near. When she sees a big male, she crouches low with her baby beneath her, grunting softly at the male and bobbing her head. He gently reaches out to touch her, as if to say, “Don’t worry. I won’t bother you.”

Most of the time, Mother keeps her little family away from the other chimpanzees. She carries her baby between food trees, sometimes followed by the next youngest offspring.

For a young chimpanzee, being alone with Mother often is boring because she spends longer gathering food than the young one does. The offspring may sit staring into space or pick the wings off an unfortunate butterfly. Sometimes there are better playthings. A favorite game is to climb up a slender sapling until it starts to bend—then hold on tight as it comes crashing to the forest floor. Of course, the best times come when the group meets another family. All the youngsters like to play chase games: One will wave a stick temptingly just out of the other’s reach and then run off with it when the playmate tries to grab it. When the pursuer catches the tease, they wrestle and tickle each other, laughing madly. Young males tend to get carried away; they always seem to end up in a fight, and the mothers have to break it up.

Given the choice, young females prefer quieter games, such as carrying tiny babies about. Some girls are lucky enough to have an infant sister or brother. Others get to play with babies only when they meet another family. Still, if her mother doesn’t want to stay with the baby’s family, the young female might try to persuade her by following the baby herself.

Life isn’t always easy. For several weeks during the dry season, the infant may go to bed hungry every night. Mother’s milk is a comfort in the early years, but by the age of five or six, Mother will gently push away the young one’s face when he or she snuggles onto her lap to nurse. If the young one is repeatedly turned away, he or she will whimper, tug on Mother’s arm, scream, slap the ground, hit the bushes, and finally crash off in a rage. Mother and child always make it up, however, and at the end of the day, they crawl into a fresh leaf bed and lie side by side in comfort and peace.

The Winter Sun
by Douglas Florian

The winter sun's a grumpy guy.
He scarcely gets to see the sky.
He doesn't speak. His rays are weak.
His disposition's grim and bleak.
He hovers near the naked trees,
His blanket from the sky's big freeze,
And barely dares to lift his head
Before he's ordered back to bed.

Anna and Caleb’s lives are happy except for one thing—they want a mother. Then one day their father tells them he had placed an advertisement for a wife. Read the passage carefully, and then answer questions XX through XX.

Sarah, Plain and Tall
by Patricia MacLachlan

Papa leaned back in the chair. “I’ve placed an advertisement in the newspapers. For help.”

“You mean a housekeeper?” I asked, surprised.

Caleb and I looked at each other and burst out laughing, remembering Hilly, our old housekeeper. She was round and slow and shuffling. She snored in a high whistle at night, like a teakettle, and let the fire go out.

Caleb stared at Papa. “A wife? You mean a mother?”

Nick slid his face onto Papa’s lap and Papa stroked his ears.

“That, too,” said Papa. “Like Maggie.”

Matthew, our neighbor to the south, had written to ask for a wife and mother for his children. And Maggie had come from Tennessee. Her hair was the color of turnips and she laughed.

Papa reached into his pocket and unfolded a letter written on white paper. “And I have received an answer.” Papa read to us:

Dear Mr. Jacob Witting,

I am Sarah Wheaton from Maine as you will see from my letter. I am answering your advertisement. I have never been married, though I have been asked. I have lived with an older brother, William, who is about to be married. His wife-to-be is young and energetic.

I have always loved to live by the sea, but at this time I feel a move is necessary. And the truth is, the sea is as far east as I can go. My choice, as you can see, is limited. This should not be taken as an insult. I am strong and I work hard and I am willing to travel. But I am not mild mannered. If you should still care to write, I would be interested in your children and about where you live. And you.

Very truly yours,
Sarah Elisabeth Wheaton

P.S. Do you have opinions on cats? I have one.

No one spoke when Papa finished the letter. He kept looking at it in his hands, reading it over to himself. Finally I turned my head a bit to sneak a look at Caleb. He was smiling. I smiled, too.

“One thing,” I said in the quiet of the room. “What’s that?” asked Papa, looking up. I put my arm around Caleb.

“Ask her if she sings,” I said.

Caleb and Papa and I wrote letters to Sarah, and before the ice and snow had melted from the fields, we all received answers. Mine came first.

Dear Anna,

Yes, I can braid hair and I can make stew and bake bread, though I prefer to build bookshelves and paint.

My favorite colors are the colors of the sea, blue and gray and green, depending on the weather. My brother William is a fisherman, and he tells me that when he is in the middle of a fog-bound sea the water is a color for which there is no name. He catches flounder and sea bass and bluefish. Sometimes he sees whales. And birds, too, of course. I am enclosing a book of sea birds so you will see what William and I see every day.

Very truly yours,
Sarah Elisabeth Wheaton
Caleb read and read the letter so many times that the ink began to run and the folds tore. He read the book about sea birds over and over.

“Do you think she’ll come?” asked Caleb.
“And will she stay? What if she thinks we are loud and pesky?”
“You are loud and pesky,” I told him. But I was worried, too. Sarah loved the sea, I could tell. Maybe she wouldn’t leave there after all to come where there were fields and grass and sky and not much else.

“What if she comes and doesn’t like our house?” Caleb asked. “I told her it was small. Maybe I shouldn’t have told her it was small.”
“Hush, Caleb. Hush.”

Caleb’s letter came soon after, with a picture of a cat drawn on the envelope.

Dear Caleb,

My cat’s name is Seal because she is gray like the seals that swim offshore in Maine. She is glad that Lottie and Nick send their greetings. She likes dogs most of the time. She says their footprints are much larger than hers (which she is enclosing in return).

Your house sounds lovely, even though it is far out in the country with no close neighbors. My house is tall and the shingles are gray because of the salt from the sea. There are roses nearby.

Yes, I do like small rooms sometimes. Yes, I can keep a fire going at night. I do not know if I snore. Seal has never told me.

Very truly yours,
Sarah Elisabeth

“I wished to know,” Caleb said.
He kept the letter with him, reading it in the barn and in the fields and by the cow pond.
And always in bed at night.

One morning, early, Papa and Caleb and I were cleaning out the horse stalls and putting down new bedding. Papa stopped suddenly and leaned on his pitchfork.

“Sarah has said she will come for a month’s time if we wish her to,” he said, his voice loud in the dark barn. “To see how it is. Just to see.”

Caleb stood by the stall door and folded his arms across his chest.

“I think,” he began. Then, “I think,” he said slowly, “that it would be good—to say yes,” he finished in a rush.

Papa looked at me.
“I say yes,” I told him grinning.
“Yes,” said Papa. “Then yes it is.”
And the three of us, all smiling, went to work again.

The next day Papa went to town to mail his letter to Sarah. It was rainy for days, and the clouds followed. The house was cool and damp and quiet. Once I set four places at the table, then caught myself and put the extra plate away. Three lambs were born, one with a black face. And then Papa’s letter came. It was very short.

Dear Jacob,

I will come by train. I will wear a yellow bonnet. I am plain and tall.

Sarah

“What’s that?” asked Caleb excitedly, peering over Papa’s shoulder. He pointed.
“There, written at the bottom of the letter.”
Papa read it to himself. Then he smiled holding up the letter for us to see.

Tell them I sing was all it said.

Climate

Louisiana’s subtropical weather is as diverse as its people. Spring and fall are simply paradise here, and winters can be downright balmy. Cool drinks and cool clothing are recommended June through August.

Bring shorts in the summer, a coat in winter, and an umbrella just in case. Snow rarely falls in the southern sections, with only light snowfall recorded in the northern regions.

Whatever the temperature, you’ll find Louisiana has the perfect climate for fun year-round.

Dear Mr Allen,

I thought that I would write to tell you how much fun I had on the class trip to your farm last week.

We really enjoyed the tours of the egg barn and the catfish hatchery. They were extra interesting! I still have questions about how the eggs and fish get to the cities. Maybe you can answer my questions in March on our next trip.

Thank you again for the tour and your time with my friends and me. Me and my mom and dad would like to visit some weekend.

Yours truly

Evie Smith
